

found ground

Intervention for vacant urban space

An installation of found, collected & remixed home-movies and text, projected large on “new-found” grounds of Providence — in this case, on walls recently exposed by downtown demolition.

Sept. 17, 18, 19 + 20 corner of Weybosset & Eddy Streets

With its homemade images, FOUND GROUND looks at the broad American landscape through the lens of some of our most intimate cultural ideals (home, family, travel, leisure), as part of a project that explores how we as Americans discover, imagine, inhabit, consume and lose the known spaces around us.

Created by E.Carlson, E.Gould + E.Carpenter.

Funded in part by RI State Council on the Arts.
